Dear Sir,

I retired from General Motors in 1993. Since my retirement, I have had many test for illnesses, including having Prostate Cancer. Two years, after my Prostate Cancer Surgery, I had to go through 37 treatments of Radiation, because the cancer came back.

I have had to use nasal sprays to keep my head clear and I constantly spit up fluid, which I think is from the work enviroment at General Motors. I can't understand why people in this country think it is not important any longer to care about sick people who are not working any longer. The workers were on the job because they had to work to make a living, they did not put the asbestos in the work place. The same people who are complaining about the cost of the illnesses, are the ones who knew in advance the illness their product could cause, if ingested in the body.

It seems that Michigan and the Michigan Supreme Court are being used as tools of the asbestos industry and big business to deny working people their constitutional rights to jury trials when harmed by corporate misconduct.

Just how would you feel, if this illness happened to you.

Yours truly,
